Explosions In The Sky

score major motion picture, prepare to sell millions!

10% SALE!!!

Opening October 15th nationwide, FRIDAY NIGHT LIGHTS – a Universal picture starring Billy Bob Thornton and Tim McGraw, based on the bestselling book of the same name – features an original score by Temporary Residence top-seller EXPLOSIONS IN THE SKY.

The film chronicles the entire 1988 season of a high school football team from Odessa, TX (adjacent to Explosions In The Sky's hometown of Midland, TX). It focuses on the ongoing financial and emotional struggles of a small town that places all of its hopes on the team's chances at winning the state championship.

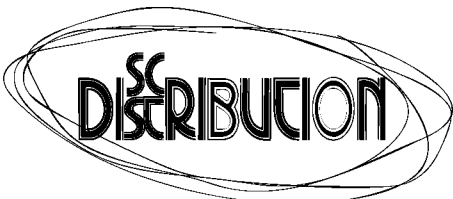

The Universal soundtrack – scheduled for release October 5 – includes Explosions In The Sky's score, as well as a new Faith Hill/Tim McGraw duet and a new track by No Doubt's Gwen Stefani. Universal estimates the soundtrack will top one million copies sold by Christmas 2004.

"Have You Passed Through This Night?" from Those Who Tell the Truth Shall Die... is featured in the film's trailer, which began airing in theaters nationwide June 11. The trailer begins airing on national television next week during the Olympic Games.
